PROFESSOR WAS TOUCHED.

And Forgave the Youth Before a Full Explanation Had Been Made.

"I look upon you as a disgrace to the college," thundered the irate professor. "And were it not for my life-long friendship with your honored father, I would expel you, sir."

The present had been about the tenth time during the term that young Fulano had been reprimanded for infractions of the college rules, and it was very apparent from the old gentleman's voice and manner that he was about tired of it.

Had the present offense been merely of the usual character he might not have felt so indignant. Participation in the lively escapades peculiar to collegians, if not carried too far, he was disposed to wink at, if not overlook. But to do as Fulano had now done—actually sell his text-books and those of his small library in order to assist in a grand jollification—was something, he thought, that struck at the establishment's very foundation.

Fulano, as one having no defense, offered not a word of explanation or apology.

"And to think that you, a scholar's son and a student at this college, should descend so low as to sell your books!" ended up the learned but angry man with a fine burst of scorn.

"But I didn't sell them all," feebly answered Fulano. "I have one left."

"Oh, you have, have you?" sarcastically. "And, pray, what is that? A patent office report?"

"No, sir," and the youth blushed as though conscious of showing a weakness of feeling. "It is the presentation copy of your own 'History of Spain,' with which you honored me on my arrival here."

The professor was touched in a tender spot. He was naturally proud of his authorship. He also loved the son of his old friend almost as his own, and now that the boy had spared that one book while sacrificing the rest showed there was something good in him, after all.

"Well, John, my boy," he finally said, in a gentle tone, putting forth his hand, "all youth has its faults, and I forgive you; but why, why did you not sell that book likewise?"

"I tried to, professor, but nobody would buy it."—London Tit-Bits.

Rolled Out Rainbows.

St. Louis is ablaze with colored posters heralding the great annual event in American newspaper-making, namely, the appearance, Dec. 15, of St. Louis Post-Dispatch's Christmas number. This year all the leading monthly magazines' Christmas numbers combined will not equal in bulk or literary and pictorial outlay what the Post-Dispatch has billed for the Christmas number, Dec. 15. Bret Harte, America's greatest writer of Christmas stories, has turned from the monthly magazines and given his Christmas story to the Post-Dispatch—her father created the Christmas story—contributes her Christmas story also to the Post-Dispatch. And the children's supplement! Come, gather closely, children! games printed in the colors of the rainbow and the child that solves a puzzle will get $25 in gold. Indeed, the whole paper will be a rainbow in coloring—the biggest rainbow that big circulation-made papers of the present day have yet rolled out on lightning presses and sold for less than cost in the struggle for circulation supremacy.

inevitably endangers the interests of all. The fundamental rule in our national life, the rule which underlies all others, is that the majority shall rule. In the long run, things go up or down according to the majority, and in times of prosperity some will prosper far more and in times of adversity some will prosper less. There are exceptions, but, speaking generally, a period of good times means that all share more or less in them, and in a period of hard times all share more or less in them.

"He points to the fact that in the past 'the ignorant or reckless agitator has been the really effective friend of the employer and the business man.' In disposing of the government to undertake by law what has been left to the market, he would be to incur the risk of such far-reaching national disaster that it would be preferable to let business go to ruin. At such a time men who demand the impossible or the undesirable serve as the allies of the forces with which they are nominally at odds. It is the duty of the government to endeavor to find out in rational fashion what the wrongs really are and to what extent, and in what manner it is practically possible to remedy them."

Remedies for the Trust Evil.

But while he says the above is true, he yet sees many evils for which there should be remedies provided. Of these evils the chief is over capitalization. "Because of this," he says, "the country is in a state of stagnation. 'The conviction of the American people that the great corporations, known as trusts, are in certain of their features and in certain of their methods of operation based upon sincere conviction that combination and concentration should be not prohibited, but supervised and controlled by reasonable limits is a controlling factor in judgment this conviction is right.'"

"As a remedy for these evils he says: 'The existing difficulty to throw law rights to deal with the great industrial combinations is knowledge of the facts—publicity. In the interest of the public, it is the duty of the government to inspect and examine the workings of the great corporations engaged in interstate business. Publicity is the only sure way of determining the truth. If no further remedies are needed in the way of governmental regulation or taxation should be determined. If publicity has been obtained, the process of reform in the course of administration. The first requisite is knowledge, full and complete in the way in which may be made public to the world.'

"Artificial bodies, such as corporations and joint stock or other associations developed out of the old family system, the existence or privileges, should be subject to proper governmental supervision, and full and accurate information as to their operations should be made public regularly at reasonable intervals."

"The large corporations, commonly called trusts, though organized in one state, always do very little business in the state where they are incorporated. There is a lack of uniformity in the state laws about them, and it is suggested that any exclusive interest in or power over their acts it has in practice proved impossible to secure. It is suggested that through state action. Therefore, in the interest of the whole people the nation should, without interfering with the power of the states, assume the duty to assume power of supervision and regulation over all corporations doing interstate business. This is especially true where the corporation has its headquarters in its wealth from the existence of some nonopolistic element or tendency in its nature. Such supervision would be no hardship in such supervision. It is not accepted as a simple matter of course. Indeed it is suggested by the national government, not so far as is now the case with the supervision exercised over them by so-called state governments, in order to produce excellent results."

The president believes that it will be possible to secure the needed remedies for the trusts, under the present constitution as it now exists, but if congress thinks otherwise he recommends that a constitutional amendment be adopted that will confer on the state necessary powers.

In connection with the trusts he recommends legislation creating a cabinet of commerce, and a bureau of commerce, to be composed of a number of representatives of various industries, with all questions concerning commerce, labor and the merchant marine.

Would Exclude the Chinese.

The message contains a strong recommendation for the readjustment of such immigration as is now being admitted in which connection he says:

"Wages are higher to-day in the United States than ever before in our history, and 'at the same time the Chinese are coming to this country. The standard of living is also higher than ever before. Every effort of legislation to secure the permanent employment of things and its improvement wherever possible. Not only must our labor be protected from unfair competition, but it should be protected so far as possible from the presence in this country of any laborers brought over by contract or of any other class of labor that is not representative of the standard of living so dependent on that they can undercut our men in the labor market and drag them to a lower level. It is suggested that the government be in view, to reenact immediately the law excluding Chinese laborers and to strengthen it wherever necessary in order that it make its enforcement entirely effective."

He also recommends such legislation, by which the government can regulate interstate commerce, as will protect the interstate commerce from competing with the prison labor of another state, and also that the government should be authorized to regulate competition by not purchasing goods made by convict labor or that in which women and children are caused to work excessive hours.

In the labor unions of the present he sees much that is good, in which connection he says:

"Very great good has been and will be accomplished by associations or unions of wage-workers when managed with forethought and care. They combine in their own position their own right in abiding respect for the rights of others. The display of these qualities in such a manner is a great contribution to the state to the associations themselves. Finally there must also in many cases be action by the government in order to secure the rights of the laborer. Under our constitution there is much more scope for such action by the state and the municipality than by the nation, and it is suggested that the government above the national government can act."

"When all is said and done, the rule of the majority is the only reasonable prerequisite to success in the kind of a nation for which we strive. Each man must work for himself, and unless he so does he will be a burden on the state. But each man must remember also that he is a member of another group."

presses. Nothing would benefit him more than the development of the islands. The connection between idleness and mischief is proverbial, and the opportunity to do remunerative work is one which no business man would neglect. Of course no business man will go into the Philippines unless it is to his interest to do so. He understands the value of the islands that he should go in. It is therefore necessary that the congress should pass laws by which the interests of the islands should be developed, so that franchises (for limited terms of years) can be granted to companies doing business in them and every enterprise engaged in such to the incoming business men of every kind.

"Not to permit this is to do wrong to the islands themselves. The franchises must be granted and the business permitted until under regulations which will guarantee the islands against any kind of natural wealth being lost. In the absence of such laws dealing with general transportation, mining, banking, currency, homesteads and the use and ownership of land, the islands themselves will give free play to industrial enterprise, and the commercial development which will surely follow will be to the benefit of the islands and the benefactors of the sincerity of our desire to aid them."

The construction of a Pacific cable also has been urged, either that the government lay such a cable to connect Hawaii with the Philippines, or that an arrangement be made by which the international cable may be secured to the government by contract with a private cable company. This is deemed necessary from both political and military considerations.

The Isthmian Canal.

He calls attention to the need of a isthmian canal, and says:

"Its importance to the nation is by reason of its effects merely to its material effects upon our business prosperity, and yet with a view to these effects alone we ought to have immediately begun to work for us immediately to begin it. While the beneficial effects would perhaps be most marked upon the Pacific coast and the Gulf of Mexico, the advantages would also greatly benefit other regions. We emphatically favor a work which is for the interest of the entire country, and which cannot be broken up as possibly one of those great works which cost great nations an undue time with prospects of success and security in their own material interests, but stand monuments to its constructive abilities."

Of necessity it was necessary to mention to England because it was thought desirable to announce to that country our position on this subject with Great Britain, and that our friendship and mutual good will are respect, have resulted in my being able to lay before the people plans to begin preparation for an isthmian canal at any time now, which means that there is no longer any question of delay, and that we are ready to begin the canal. In this treaty the old Clayton-Bulwer treaty, so long recognized as inadequate to supply the base for the construction of a canal, is abrogated. If an American ship canal is abrogated. It specially provides that the United States alone shall do the work of constructing and running the responsibility of safeguarding the canal and shall regulate its neutral use by all nations on terms of equality with no outside nation at any quarter. The signed treaty will at once be laid before the senate, and if approved it will take effect and will give effect to the advantages it secures us by providing for the building of the canal.

The Monroe Doctrine.

The president sets forth the objects of the Monroe doctrine, and the spirit in which it has been received by other countries, and says:

"The nation has not the slightest desire to acquire any territory at the expense of any of our neighbors, and elites our attitude toward them is based upon a sense of good faith. He says also that "this doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power with another state, and it does not to form such as it desires." That "we do not ask for any exclusive commercial treaty with any other American state."

"The Monroe doctrine should be the cardinal feature of the foreign policy of all the nations of the two Americas. Since President Monroe in his annual message announced that 'the American continent is henceforth reserved to consider as subjects for future colonization by any European power.' In other words, the Monroe doctrine is intended to protect the hemisphere from territorial aggrandizement by any non-American power at the expense of any American power on American soil. It is in no way intended to interfere with the peace of the world. Still less is it intended to give cover to any aggression by one new world power at the expense of any other. It is intended to secure the permanent peace assuring the universal peace of the world by securing the possibility of permanent peace in this hemisphere."

The Navy.

The president urges the continued upbuilding of the navy as a means of performing our international duties as well as a protection and safeguard for our internal commerce. He says:

"We are a first-class power and necessitates the building and maintenance of a navy in keeping with our place among the nations of the world."

"So far from being in any way a provocation to war, an adequate and highly-trained navy is the guarantee against attack by sea-chapman and modern piracy insurance. The cost of building and maintaining such a navy represents the very best investment for the preservation of this nation can possibly pay."

He recommends both the construction of more ships and the addition of more officers and men absolutely necessary, and says:

"There should be no cessation in the work of completing our fleet. So far from being a hindrance, the navy is a substitute for the great war craft whose hammering guns beat out the mastery of the high seas, it is in fact the nucleus of a navy, and it is for several additional battleships and heavy armored cruisers, with auxiliary and lighter craft of various types, and a few submarines. I refer you to the report of the secretary of the navy. But there is something we need even more than additional vessels, and that is additional seamen. To provide battleships and cruisers and then lay them up, with the expectation of leaving them unmanned unready for service, would be a crime worse than folly. It would be a crime against the nation."

"To send any warship against a competitor, without having the crews who have been trained by years of actual sea service, including incessant gunnery practice, would be to invite not merely disaster, but utter defeat. The navy must be maintained. Four thousand additional seamen and a thousand additional marines should be provided, and an increase in the number of the crew of each vessel, a large addition to the classes at Annapolis. There is one small matter which should be mentioned in connection with the navy, and that is the promotion of the title of 'naval cadet' should be abolished; the title of 'midshipman,' full of historic association, should be restored. The midshipmen's battalions appropriated for, of which nine are completed and have been commissioned for actual duty, should be increased to twenty, and ready in from two to four years, but it will take at least that time to recruit and train the men to fight them. It is of vast importance to have a steady stream of recruits for the vessels by the time they are commissioned. Good ships and good guns are simply good weapons, and the best weapons are useless unless the men know how to fight with them. The men must be trained and drilled under a thorough and well-planned system of instruction, while the recruiting must be carried on with still greater vigor. Every effort must be made to exact the highest quality of character and command of men. The leading graduates of the naval academy should be assigned to the combatant arm of the line and marine corps."

The Army.

No increase in the regular army is deemed necessary at this time, but there are several changes in that branch that are recommended. Secretary Blaine has given the following suggestions:

for the general staff and supply departments. They should be allowed to return after while to their line duties. It is very undesirable to have the senior grades of the army engaged in the line. They come to fill the positions by the mere fact of seniority. A system should be adopted by which there shall be an elimination of the senior grades from the line and to render the best service in the next grade. Justice to the veterans of the war who have rendered the best service seems to require that in the matter of retirements they be given by law the same privileges accorded to their comrades. The president makes in connection with the army the recommendation that the reduction of the service to the public as a waste. Of this he says:

"Every effort should be made to bring the army to a state of the highest efficiency. When on actual service, it work save that directly in the line of such service should be required. The paper work in the army is so heavy that it must be greatly reduced. What is needed is proved power of command and capacity to lead in the field. The army is necessary to prevent a dry rot in the transportation and commissary departments."

He also urges the enactment of legislation in connection with the militia and national guard forces of the nation that they may be better organized and active in the line of service and save the waste.

"Our militia law is obsolete and worthless. The organization and armament of the militia is antiquated and the law which are enacted as militia in the appropriations by the congress, should be made identical with those provided for the regular army. The military duties of the guard in time of war should be carefully defined and a system established under which the method of procedure should be prescribed in advance. It is utterly impossible in the excitement arising favorably if the arrangement of the militia has been made long beforehand. Provision should be made for obtaining in the first place the best material for the training of those citizens who have already had experience under arms, and especially for the selection in advance of the officers for the militia. The militia should be raised; for careful selection of the kind necessary is impossible after the outbreak of war."

He praises the veterans of the civil war the war with Spain and those who have rendered the nation valiant service in the various campaigns of the west and in the Philippines, and commends their loyalty in the nation's dealing with them.

The Civil Service.

He recommends the enactment of legislation that will place under the ruling of merit in the civil service. The president says that the classes of employees not now governed by it. His recommendation for this is as follows:

"I recommend the passage of a law which will place under the civil service the District of Columbia or will at least enable the president thus to extend the civil service to all the departments. My judgment all laws providing for the employment of persons in the government should hereafter contain a provision that they be selected under the civil service law."

He also wishes the merit system to obtain in the government service in the colonies, and says:

"The appointments should be filled in the Philippines or Porto Rico with any regard to the man's partisan affiliations or services, with any regard to the political, social or religious affiliations, which he may have at his command. In short, he should be paid to absolutely nothing save the man's own character and capacity."

"The administration of these islands should be as wholly free from the suspicion of partisan politics as the administration of the United States. We ask from the public servant in the Philippines or Porto Rico that he render honor to his country by the way in which he manages his office, and that he benefit to the peoples who have come under it. This is all that we should ask, and we cannot afford to be content with less."

Other Recommendations.

Among other recommendations which the president makes are those asking for legislation to amend the consular service along lines outlined in the report at previous sessions, and he says that it is true that the service is now in the hands of a few men, and that it cannot be permanently maintained on the principles set forth in the bills heretofore submitted to the congress on this subject and the recommendation is as follows:

"He believes the time has arrived when the Indian should cease to be treated as a member of a tribe, but as an individual, and the government should make funds, putting a stop to the indiscriminate permission to Indians to lease their allotments and stopping the ration system. He recommends the improvement of the industrial educational system, and an endeavor to encourage the Indians to become agriculturists, and to settle where their lands are unsuited to agriculture."

"He recommends liberal appropriations for the Louisiana Purchase exposition and also for the exposition to be held at St. Louis by the Charleston exposition in removing government exhibits from the Buffalo exposition to that at Charleston."

"The census of the United States is a permanent census bureau, as it would insure better, cheaper and more satisfactory results in the interest of business, statistics, economic and social science."

The Postal Service.

He calls attention to the growth of the postal system and to the fact that the annual deficit in this department of the government service has been reduced to the sum of $1,225,000. He says that it is further to be increased and possibly a surplus shown but for the fact that many public utilities are securing the pound rate of one cent a pound for the mail and are entitled to the same under the law. This he says:

"This is a measure of postal progress which might be realized has long been hampered and obstructed by the heavy burden imposed on the government by the appropriation of one cent a pound for the postage on second-class mail matter. The extent of this burden appears when it is known that the government has to pay for mail matter nearly three-fifths of the weight of all the mail it paid for the last fiscal year only $24,445 of the aggregate postage revenue of $114,000,000. The pound rate of postage, which produces the large loss thus entailed and which was fixed by the congress for the purpose of encouraging the publication of newspapers and periodicals was limited to the legitimate newspapers and periodicals actually contemplated by the congress. The rate for the other matter was limited to the legitimate newspapers and periodicals actually contemplated by the congress. That expense could be recognized and accepted cost of a liberal public policy deliberately adopted for a justifiable end. The rate for the other matter was fixed at a privileged rate is wholly outside of the intent of the law and has secured admission only through an evasion of its requirements. The proportion of such wrongly included matter is estimated by postal experts to be one-half of the whole volume of second-class mail. The magnitude of the burden is apparent. The post office department has now undertaken to remove the law so as to place the pound rate in compliance of the law, and it should be sustained in its effort."

The Chinese Difficulties.

He calls attention to the satisfactory settlement of the Chinese difficulties of the United States and says that provisions have been made for insuring the future safety of the foreign investments. Of the problem of China, he says:

"The Chinese government has agreed to participate financially in the work of bettering the water and navigation of the Yangtze River. The centers of foreign trade in central and northern China, and an international conservancy board, in the Yangtze River, has been organized. The representation has been provided for the improvement of the Shanghai river and the control of its navigation. In the same manner, the Yangtze River has been improved for the purpose of making it navigable for an immense tonnage of the United States to reach the interior of the country. A list of articles to remain exclusively, including four, was submitted to the Chinese government and has been agreed upon in the settlement."

In conclusion, he mentions the Pan-American Exposition, the visit to the City of Mexico, and the visit to the Queen Victoria and the dowager Empress of Germany, which aroused the sympathy of the people.

—DECEMBER 10, 1901—

A cabinet upheaval is said to be in prospect.

Admiral Dewey says the report of the court of inquiry in the Schley case will be submitted not later than next Monday.

Maj. Van Tets, Queen Wilhelmina's aide-de-camp, wounded in a duel with her husband, is dead of appendicitis. He was sick when he fought the Prince.

Bradley seems to have the ear of the new President and it is said he will not stop at the removal of Collectors Sapp and Comingore. Broncho Franks also is marked for de capitulation.

Booker T. Washington, en route to lecture at Smith College, was refused lodging at three of the leading hotels of Springfield, Mass. While at Smith College he was the guest of President Seeley.

Charlie Poyntz, of Maysville, is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1903 and would be foremost in the race but for the fact that Bill Thorne, of Eminence, is also in the fight with the advantage of having nearly everybody in Kentucky sorry he didn't get it before.

Suit has been brought at Frankfort, against former acting treasurer W. R. Day and former acting auditor Jno. S. Sweeney, to recover $28,224.52 state funds unlawfully used to maintain the mountain mob during Taylor's occupancy of the Governor's office.

W. Bourke Cockran, in an address at a meeting of Boer sympathizers in Chicago Sunday night, said the President of the United States could stop the South African war. A relief fund of $5,500 was raised and the audience showed great enthusiasm for the Boer cause.

The Newport Journal suggests Hon. Jno. K. Hendrick as a probable candidate for Governor. With such sure enough men as Watterson, Hendrick, Black and Pryor to choose from, the next candidate for Governor ought to be a man for whom all Democrats can vote. We have had enough close elections in Kentucky.

The osteopaths continue to secure victories in the courts. The syllabus of the Ohio Supreme Court's decision in the case of Henry H. Gravett, of Darke county, an osteopapist, who was indicted for alleged violation of the State medical laws, discloses that the law passed by the Ohio Legislature two years ago, regulating the practice of osteopathy, is declared unconstitutional.

J. W. Hamilton, of San Francisco, a bishop of the Northern Methodist church, preparatory to his visit to Decatur, Ala., to preside over a negro conference, wrote to prominent negroes there, requesting that quarters be secured for him in "good, respectable colored family." Not a reputable negro who would entertain the white man could be found in the town, and he was finally forced to go to a hotel.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial.

It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." Mrs. K. T. Snyder, Troy, Ohio.

Freak weddings seem to be the order of the day. Last week an Ohio girl married the photograph of her lover who was in another state, a proxy answering questions for the absent groom. Now it is a Kentucky girl who figures in a long distance wedding. At Bowling Green Saturday, Miss Maude Wilcutt stood in the telegraph office and became the bride of Dr. J. W. Simmons, of Peastor, Texas. They married by wire, the questions being asked from the Texas end by a justice of the peace. They were answered by Miss Wilcutt. Miss Wilcutt is unusually pretty. Her home is at Lewisburg, Logan county, Ky. She is at present teaching school in Butler county. She met the doctor recently while enroute to Rochester. The telegraph operator and her newspaper acquaintances of Bowling Green were witnesses to the marriage. Mrs. Simmons leaves next week for Texas to join her husband. He will meet her en route.

The Hebrews of Louisville will give a minstrel show at the Auditorium to-night, with local talent. A new coon song a la Roosevelt, "Gwine to Change That White House Black", will be sung for the first time by Herbert Ottenheimer. The composer is Mr. Dennis Long Miller, of Louisville. The chorus is as follows:

Ain't got no use for the colored folks,
Wid dere cake-walks an' de like,
For Ise dinin' wid de President
At 8 o'clock to-night.
So it's brush by coons, wid your nigger games;
Go an' take a seat 'way back;
For Ise dinin' wid de President—
Gwine to change that White House Black.

King Edward will be gotten up a trifle "loud" in the way of jewelry at his coming coronation. Over three thousand precious stones, diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, will be included in the King's crown. There will be 1,360 pure white diamonds and 1,270 rose diamonds. The historic ruby which the King of Castile gave the Black Prince in 1367, and which was subsequently worn by Henry V. at Agincourt, is in the center of the crown, placed in the heart of a Maltese cross.

HORSE RAN OFF

And Mrs. Bachman Was Badly Cut and Bruised.

Mrs. Eva Bachman, who resides at 420 West Seventh street, was thrown from her surrey Sunday afternoon and quite badly hurt.

She was driving on East Seventh when the horse became frightened and ran off. The vehicle struck a telephone pole and Mrs. Bachman was thrown violently to the pike.

She sustained several cuts about the face and head and her arms were also badly bruised.

While her injuries are quite painful, it is not thought that they will prove serious.

WENT THROUGH.

Council Elects Caucus Nominees With a Few Changes.

The Two Ties Broken By Trades Made On the Police Force.

The City Council met Friday night and elected the city officers selected in the recent Democratic caucus, with a few changes in the police force, the result of an agreement by which the ties in nominating for two offices were broken. Dr. J. B. Jackson, who voted for Phil Gaither for tax collector and Garner Dalton for street superintendent, agreed to vote for Gus Tandy and Jno. A. Twyman, in return for changes suggested by him in the police force.

J. M. Bullard was made Chief of Police instead of Geo. M. Steel and J. M. Cravens, Harvey McCord and E. P. Wilkins, who were left off in the former slate, were permitted to hold their present places and W. H. Nixon was substituted for Geo. W. Walker. The police force as elected is the same as now with but two changes, Bullard in place of Chief Mathews and Nixon in place of Walker.

The entire list of officers elected was as follows:

FOR FOUR YEARS.
Jouett Henry, Mayor, to succeed F. W. Dabney.

Douglass Bell, City Judge, re-elected.

FOR TWO YEARS.

Chas. S. Jackson, City Clerk, to succeed W. S. Elgin.

Walker Wood, Treasurer, to succeed Jno. T. Edmunds.

Gus P. Tandy, Tax Collector, to succeed T. J. Tate.

George Bradley, Assessor, to succeed G. E. Dalton.

J. T. Hanbery, City Attorney, in place of A. P. Crockett.

J. M. Bullard, Chief of Police, to succeed B. J. Mathews.

Policemen—E. H. Armstrong, J. M. Cravens, E. W. Shanklin, W. H. Nixon, Democrats; and Harvey McCord and E. P. Wilkins, Republicans.

Geo. E. Randle, Chief of Fire Department, and the entire company of eleven men were re-elected.

Jordan Barker, col., City Teamster, re-elected.

White Congress Once More.

For the first time since the war there is not a colored man in congress. This is very remarkable when it is considered that the Republicans have a political majority in 215 congressional districts of the United States and they carry at least fifty negro votes. It seems to one that they would at least send ten or fifteen likely colored men to congress, especially when they are always pretending that they love them so.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks Is Not Dead.

Notwithstanding a widely current rumor that the Rev. Irl R. Hicks was dead, he never was in better health, and never did a harder and more successful year's work than that just closing. He has just completed his large and splendid Almanac for 1902 and with his staff of able helpers, has brought his journal, Word and Works, justly forward into international reputation. For a quarter of a century Mr. Hicks has grown in reputation and usefulness as the people's astronomer, and forecaster of storms and the charter of coming seasons. Never were his weather forecasts so sought after as now, his timely warning of a serious drouth this year having saved the people from loss and suffering. Millions of bushels of wheat were harvested through his advice to plant crops that would mature early. The American people will certainly stand by Prof. Hicks, when it costs them so little and the benefits are so great. His fine Almanac of 200 pages is only 25c, and his splendid family journal is only one dollar a year including the Almanac. Send to Word and Works Pub. Co., 2201 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

BERRY HOWARD

One of The Goebel Fugitives Arrested in Bell County.

Conveyed to Frankfort in Spite of Bold Attempt at Recue.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 8.—Berry Howard, of Bell county, under indictment for complicity in the assassination of Gov. William Goebel and a fugitive from justice for more than a year, is safely lodged behind the bars of the Franklin county jail along with his alleged accomplices, Caleb Powers and Jim Howard. He arrived here at 9:10 o'clock this morning over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad in charge of Sheriff Henry Broughton, of Bell county, and Deputies R. W. Slusher and J. Bradley Smith and Deputy Jailer Watt Green. This was only part of the original party which surrounded the prisoner when he left Pineville at 10:30 o'clock last night, a posse of ten men, armed with rifles, accompanying Howard
as far as Corbin, Whitley county,
after passing which place no further danger was anticipated.

A bold attempt was made to rescue Berry Howard before the train left Pineville Saturday night, which was defeated by the courage of Sheriff Broughton, Conductor Doody
and Engineer Langan. Howard says he evaded arrest, because he could not be assured bond. It was reported last night that Howard might be a witness, either for the Commonwealth or defense, in the approaching trial of Jim Howard.

Fourth Circle Meeting.

The Fourth Circle of Bethel Association will meet with the Crofton Baptist church on Saturday and Sunday, December 28 and 29, 1901. The following program has been arranged for the occasion:

1. The duty of church members to the unconverted persons of the congregation and community—Rev.
F. W. Whittenbraker.

2. The cause of the irreverence and indifference of our people to religious services, and the correction
—Rev. Chas. H. Nash.

3. The obligation resting upon each church member to be strictly missionary—Dr. B. F. Eager.

4. How can we increase the interest of our people in reading and studying the bible?—Rev. J. A.
McCord.

5. The exposition of the scripture: "Why call ye me Lord, Lord,
and do not the things which I say?"
Luke VI.—46—R. R. Donaldson.

The following churches compose Fourth Circle, and are respectfully invited to attend or to send messengers with written reports from their respective churches: Hopkinsville, Concord, Barren Springs,
Mt. Zoar, Macedonia, Ebenezer,
West Union, Pleasant Hill, Crofton,
White Thorn Creek, Palestine, Max
Grove, West Mt. Zoar, Sinking Fork,
New Pleasant Hill. Everyone is invited to attend and hear the discussion of the program.

CAPTURED KNIGHTS.

Houses Surrounded And Men
Taken Without Bloodshed.

Under Indictment For Being In-placated in Attack on Empire Miners.

Bud and Bert Knight, who were indicted at the last term of Christian Circuit Court for malicious shooting, intimidating, etc., were arrested at daybreak Saturday morning at their homes, just over the Hopkins county line, about two miles from Empire, and lodged in jail here. The Knights are union men and were indicted on a charge of being implicated in the first attack made upon the nonunion miners at Empire, in which Tom Bell was shot in the leg.

There are several bills against each prisoner and bail has been fixed at $300 in each case. They have not yet furnished bond.

Deputy Sheriff C. J. Barnes, who had been on the lookout for the men, finally located them and just before
day Saturday morning he, in company with Deputy Dick Rogers, of Hopkins county, and a dozen Empire mine guards, proceeded to the home of Ed Knight, father of the men, and arrested Bert. They then went to a cabin a few hundred yards away, where they found Bud,
and he was also taken into custody.

MARRIED IN ILLINOIS.

Four Weddings all at Once, the Bridegrooms Including An Uncle and Nephew.

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 5.—Four couples from this county were married at Metropolis, Ill., this morning. They were Mr. E. B. Fordaw
and Miss Emma Lindsay, Mr. Bud Fordaw and Miss Ora Hall, Mr. J.
W. Hays and Miss Emma Rust, Mr.
Dan Armstrong and Miss Orrie Story. One unusual feature of the quadruple matrimonial event is that the two Fordaws are uncle and nephew. Three of the couples crossed the Ohio at Brookport and roved through in buggies in a heavy snowstorm. They were all married at the same time.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver
and bladder remedy.
It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper
who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.
When writing, mention reading this generous

TUMLIN CASE

Given to Jury Saturday But No
Verdict Returned.

Commonwealth Business About Completed—Only 15 Indictments Found.

The Commonwealth's business in the Lyon Circuit Court has nearly all been disposed of and after tomorrow the civil docket will be taken up.

The most important criminal case
on the docket was that of Al Tumlin, charged with the murder of Newton Riley, a 17-year-old boy, last August. The case was called last Wednesday. After 150 men had been examined the jury was made up. At the conclusion of the examination of the witnesses for the Commonwealth the defense stated that it had no testimony to offer
and the arguments began.

The defense was represented by Messrs. Ward Headly and Shell
Smith, of Princeton, M. M. Han-berry, of Cadiz, and Wilson &
James, of Eddyville.

Mr. Headly made a touching and pathetic appeal for his client
and asked the jury to spare the life of Tumlin. The other attorneys also made good speeches in the case.

The Commonwealth was represented by Messrs. W. R. Howell and County Attorney Molloy.

The case was given to the jury Saturday, but no verdict had been reached yesterday.

The grand jury found only fifteen indictments at this term.

CHURCH WEDDING.

Mr. Cummings and Miss Scales
United in Clarksville.

Mr. Wm. H. Cummings, Jr., the prominent young tobaccoist, was married in Clarksville Thursday to Miss Barbara Scales, at the Episcopal church, the Rev. P. A. Rod-rigues officiating.

Great interest was centered in the wedding, on account of the popularity of the bride and groom. Mr.
John Cummings, of New York,
brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Roberta Luckett was maid of honor. Mr. Joseph Scales gave the bride away. The attendants were Misses Caroline Barker, of Louisville; Kate Cornelius, of Nashville; Lyon Childress, of Nashville; Dr. Henry Tandy, of this city; Mrs. Eugene Harris, of Nashville; Misses Lula Kessee and Maggine Bloch, Mrs. Martin L. Cross, Messrs. H. P. Pickering and Bowman Ewing, of Clarksville.

After the ceremony a reception was tendered the bridal party at the home of the bride on College street. They left on a bridal tour and will return in ten days to this city and be at home in a new house
being prepared for their occupancy,
on the corner of Virginia and Fourteenth streets.

Mr. Cummings is very prominent in social and business circles, while his bride is a young lady of rare beauty and many accomplishments.
The Clarksville Times-Journal
makes this comment:

"Mr. Cummings is well known here and he is liked as well as he is known, and respected as a young man of sterling worth. He has won for his bride a young lady who is truly a queen among the belles of Clarksville's social set, a lady whose attractive personality and charms of manner and character have made her a reigning favorite in a large circle of friends.
The bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents which were sent as evidences of esteem for both parties. The congratulations, best wishes and prayers of all that Mr. and Mrs.
Cummings may have a happy and prosperous life, follow this popular couple on their journey through the unknown."

TWO ATTACKS

Of "Fever." But Col. Bryan Has Fully Recovered.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan, of Lincoln, Neb., made application for life insurance on a Milwaukee company, and one of his answers to the legal examiner's questions is unique. In replying to the interrogatory as to whether he ever had a fever, and, if so, what were the character, Editor Bryan said: "I had twice from Presidential fever, followed by severe chills, but have fully recovered."

It is understood that Mr. Bryan will be duly accepted by the chief medical examiner.

THE LAUGHING PHILOSOPHER.

In "Sunshine And Shadow," the Next Attraction.

Mr. A. W. Hawks, of Baltimore, Md., the Laughing Philosopher, and one of the leading Chautauqua speakers of the United States, will deliver his famous lecture, "Sunshine and Shadow," at Holland's Opera House Monday night, December 16. His lecture is sparkling with wit and humor and teeming with sunshine and smiles. He tells funny stories, recounts pathetic incidents and his facial expression is wonderful.

In commenting on Mr. Hawks' lecture delivered at Owensboro the Daily Messenger says:

A. W. Hawks, of Baltimore, opened the Lyceum lecture course at Temple theatre last night with his lecture on "Sunshine and Shadows." Almost every seat in the house was taken. For two hours he entertained the crowd by his stories and quaint philosophy. His optimistic views of life and living are very much along the lines of Talmage. In fact, one could almost imagine he was hearing Talmage, except for the absence of the foghorn voice and the ungainly gestures of the great preacher. Hawks is a graceful orator and an entertaining speaker, and his lecture was a very fitting opening to the Lyceum course.

PRISONER PAROLED.

Released From Eddyville Penitentiary—Was in Jail Here.

Jas. A. Russell; a member of the mob who killed Hewlett Howton in Caldwell county several years ago, and who was given 20 years in the penitentiary for his connection with the shocking affair, has been paroled.

Russell had served two years of his sentence. At the time the crime was committed he was living near Providence, Ky. He was formerly a resident of Todd county and his wife now lives in Elkton. The feeling was so strong against the men charged with the crime that Russell and three other prisoners arrested for participation in the same murder were brought here from Princeton for safe keeping and remained in jail in this city several weeks.

THE WHEAT CROP

Gives No Promise of Being a Record Breaker.

The final crop report of the season has been issued from the state agricultural department. It is made up by Commissioner Nall from the reports of correspondents in about 100 counties, and is devoted mostly to the condition of the growing crop of wheat, which does not at this time indicate that it will be a record breaker.

SMALL PEOPLE.

Family of Seven Only Weigh 462 Pounds.

There is probably no family of people in the county who are as small as the family of Mr. J. R. Bridges, of Maple Grove, says the Cadiz Record. There are seven members of the family—father, mother, and five children, and the total weight of all is only 462 pounds. The oldest child—a boy of fourteen—weighs only 62 pounds.
